

This is a printer friendly version of an article from newsleader.com
To print this article open the file menu and choose Print.

Back

Article published Feb 7, 2008

Expoland neighbors want respect

As an owner of land that joins Expo on two sides, I feel the need to express my opinion about the proposed motorcross racetrack. When Expo was being developed, there was an understanding of a "good neighbors policy" that events would be handled so that noise and dust would be minimized.

I remember the first "mud-bog" and the "van-fest" and the first TNT pull. Every TNT pull since is a complete weekend of having noise from the "souped-up" diesel engines that vibrate the ground a quarter of a mile to the house. When the engine cuts off, the loudspeaker comes on just as loud as the engine was.

Then the acrid diesel smoke starts drifting down the hill. We have endured this since the first pull without complaint because we realized that once it is over, there will be peace and quiet until the next one.

With the motocross track, this will be continual noise on top of what we have now, so I think this is going against the policy of being a good neighbor. To me, this is about making money and to heck with the neighbors.
